One Day Workshop on under DST-SERB SSR Program
(21/06/2024)

Theoretical Condensed Matter Physics and Advanced Computational Materials Science Laboratory

Object

Science and Technology have been an integral part of Indian civilization and culture over the past several millennia. Earlier S&T policies had emphasized the utilization of science for the welfare of the people. However, the new India with its vibrant young populace is a country of ambition and rising aspiration, requiring a renewed emphasis on the integration of S&T with society at both the institutional and individual levels. Indian science emphasized upon the need for inculcating SSR for engaging science for societal welfare. This necessitates developing a framework to facilitate the integration of science and society and build synergy among the stakeholders thereby ensuring transfer of scientific knowledge for the benefit of society.
