Several Multinational companies have reduced their hiring numbers due to the global economic slowdown. 2. Companies become more conservative in hiring due to uncertain demand projections. 3. Many companies over-hired during the post-COVID boom in 2021-22, anticipating sustained growth. The slowdown in demand led to backlogs in onboarding and pause in new hiring. 4. Many startups, which were aggressive recruiters in 2021-22, faced funding issues in 2023-24, leading to hiring freezes and even job revocations.
